Death of a Gender

The past decades have been marked by a male fetish for the perfectly formed woman, slim at waist yet with unrealistic bust and hip line, or what was commonly referred to as 36-24-36. A few decades ago, it was a wife’s nightmare to have her man feast his eyes on such a draw. At the beach or on a hot summer day, she would try to, often in vain, to switch scenes to avoid her man being exposed to such babes. Perhaps, in part, to save herself from feelings of inadequacy.

But no longer, preening oneself before a mirror and overly showing signs of an obsession with looks and skin used to be a feminine bastion. Now, with a certain merging of gender roles, men, have fallen prey to the “look good, feel good” mantra. All the better for women!

It’s not easy to make the mark – you need immaculate skin, no wrinkles in sight, biceps and pectoral muscles that bulge and protrude, the list goes on. In fact, men have fallen so acutely into this trap that they seem to be building bodies for their own satisfaction, not so much for the pleasure of women.

Having suffered from the body beautiful syndrome since yore, smart women now take the looks race in their stride and have learnt to manage the competition.

Men, however, are the new entrants, who have just realized that they need not necessarily be relegated to a burping-farting pot-bellied middle age. But their obsession with themselves has become so intense, that it forms the subject of serious study. The Adonis Complex, a term used to denote a male obsession with physique is being talked about in academic circles as the next worst psychological trauma afflicting men.

Men suffering from body dysmorphic disorder are the worst outcome of the role generalization of the new century. Surrounded by surreal masculine frames threatening their masculinity, they end up wanting to emulate Adonis, a Greek God who was considered half God and half man, and possibly, the most beautiful man of all.

The traditionally nonchalant about his looks man has bitten the dust; having been redefined as a metrosexual or retrosexual man. Sadly, the challenge to his image and identity has sapped him of his conventional strength. No longer is man the He Man – the sole master of the universe. Man’s insecurity has certainly helped turn the tables in favour of women, who surprisingly, are also complaining, whining about where the ideal man of yesteryears has gone?

Apparently, a man with bulging muscles is not very cuddly. Interestingly, Leit et all calculated that the average Playgirl centerfold man had dropped 12 pounds of fat and put on 27 pounds of muscle over the past 25 years (between 1973 and 1997).

Somehow, in getting carried away by the looks monster, both inhabitants, from Mars and from Venus, have missed the bus. A pressing need to reach ones deathbed (or at least old age) in good shape and without blemish, having yielded to nicks and tucks along the way, prevails. The body beautiful syndrome triumphs – a healthy body has given way to a body conforming to a certain image.

In succumbing to vanity, some men have forgotten a vital truth, that no-body is perfect and to extract meaning from and spread happiness is to truly make the most of one’s life – a good enough reason to live. Has the spirit of life got lost in a gym?

I’m averse to alcohol, yet this quote by Steve Parker sums up the spirit (pun unintended) of my perspective, “Life should not be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in an attractive and well preserved body; but rather to skid in sideways, champagne in one hand, strawberries in the other, body thoroughly used up, totally worn out and screaming ‘Woo Hoo What A Ride!’”

Greetings from the Board Chair

I would like to welcome the new Board members and Men's Center members. 2005 was a year of transition at the Men's Center. As some support groups matured and move on, new support groups such as the Transition Group and Healthy Sexual Boundaries emerged to address new social issues and concerns of the community.

The Annual Meeting on Saturday January 14, 2006 had a good attendance and participation. It is encouraging to see so many members voicing their experience and opinions. Such participation is always welcomed at the Men's Center.

I would also like to acknowledge the Men's Center office staff and volunteers—Randy G., Ray C. and Don J. The Men's Center office organize and categorize the library, coordinate the Men's Center presence at several events and conferences, and continually provide assistance as a resource to the community regarding men's issues. The Men's Center office staff is an integral part in the Men's Center accomplishing its mission.

Another integral part is you—Men's Center member, volunteers and facilitators. You are the reason why the Men's Center has been a part of the community for the last thirty years. Your time, energy and skills are greatly appreciated and recognized.

As we start 2006, the Men's Center will continue to work with our members and the community to address issues and concerns of men and the community at large.

Thank you for being a part of the Men's Center, and I look forward to the exciting ventures for 2006.

Live Long and Prosper,
L. Dudley, Board Chair

Anger Management Is Life-Long Work
— BY BOB ANDERSON

It's a truism, almost a cliche, that anger management is a life-long practice. But some men take it to heart -- Bill S., for example. He took the Men's Center class two years ago at Christ Presbyterian in Edina, then again recently in Hopkins.

"I got much more out of it the second time around," he said. He had wanted to follow up on the first class, with its great feeling of camaraderie. The guys even had a party afterward. Bill knew he needed continued support to sustain the progress he was making, but like so many anger management classes, the energy wasn't sufficient to sustain an ongoing support group. So Bill took another class.

"I fell in love with the new group right away and they did with me too," he said. "The acceptance, brutal honesty and caring were there from the start, and the guys called during the week to check up on each other."

It was just what the doctor ordered. The lessons in the course are deep, requiring fearless self-scrutiny, a willingness to learn new patterns of thinking and feeling, and the courage to take full responsibility for one's life. Repeated practice is the only way to make progress.

Bill has struggled with two major issues in his life, drinking and anger. Both stem in part from an abusive, tyrannical father and a religious upbringing that laid the shame and blame on thick and heavy. The drinking he dealt with some time ago, but the anger persists.

"For years people told me I was an angry man but I denied it, the way an alcoholic denies the truth. I'd rage at the drop of a hat. I've got a right to be angry, I thought, look at what life has done to me."

He's appreciated and depended on the openness and honesty of the men in the class. "You're not alone, we're all in it together, and that makes it easier."

To encourage taking the class additional times, the Men's Center offers a $50 discount on repeats.

Alumni Group Offers Additional Support

An Alumni Group for anger management classes is offered the first Tuesday of every month, at the Men's Center, from 7 to 9 p.m. Anyone who has gone through the course is welcome to attend, on an occasional or on-going basis. This is a core group of three guys who have stayed together since their class of three or four years ago. See, it can be done. All it takes is commitment.
Men's Center Events

The mission of the Men's Center is to provide resources for men seeking to grow in body, mind, and spirit; and from that foundation to advocate for healthier family and community relationships.

PRESENTATIONS

Nearly every Wednesday evening, the Men’s Center is proud to offer a presentation on a wide range of subjects of interest to men as well as to our community. This tradition has been part of the Men’s Center offering since it’s founding 30 years ago. These drop-in meetings require no pre-registration, and volunteer experts in the respective subjects conduct them all. Because of our primary mission, all presentations are for men only unless it is otherwise indicated in the individual descriptions.

Please read through these various descriptions to determine which is of interest to you, and consider bringing a friend. This could be an excellent introduction to the Men’s Center for them. Each presentation is intended to foster personal growth and to stimulate interest in the topic.

Our presenters include: Jim Duffy, Candy Hadsall, Daniel Ferris Braun, Andy Michel, Cheryl Martin, and Linda Wray.

A Circle of Warriors
Presenter: Andy Michel
When: Wed. Feb. 8, 7:00-9:00 pm

The Mankind Project is an organization of men working together to improve their lives and help other men. As New Warriors “We are an order of men called to reclaim the sacred masculine provides a model for men to generate and maintain a world in such a way that it includes and yet rise above one’s own issues for the betterment of one’s self, one’s own family, tribe, nation and race.”

We are all familiar with a man’s physical tools (a hammer, a sword, a plow....) Is this enough? What about integrity, commitment, action and clarity? I know that most men want and need these tools. The New Warrior Training Adventure can help. Join a circle of warriors to ask questions and hear how the adventure has changed men’s lives.

“The initiation of men is the hope of the world.” - Don Jones, former chairman, Mankind Project.

The Elements of Being Workshop
Presenter: Daniel Ferris Braun
When: Wed. Feb. 15, 7:00-9:00 pm
Wed. Mar. 1, 7:00-9:00 pm
Wed. Mar. 15, 7:00-9:00 pm

Three non-consecutive Wednesday evenings

Have you read self-help books on wellbeing? Practiced the 4 agreements? The 7 habits? The 11 lessons or 12 steps? Some spend thousands on such, but you can learn what underlies our wellbeing by learning the One-Principle®. During these three two-hour sessions you will learn and practice a single principle that will transform your life! It is the shortest path to optimal living and SELF-fulfillment! Explore your path using the One-Principle® and every ‘thing’ falls in place and your path becomes the Way of being fully yourSELF! Put this workshop on your calendar. You won’t regret it. Please, bring friends.

The ecology movement of the 1960’s changed Mr. Daniel Ferris Braun. How could humans be so destructive to their own living support systems? Eventually, during a solo trek in the wilds, he experienced a revelation. He has traveled the routes of the great philosophical traditions looking for their essence. A writer and neurolinguistic philosopher, he has reduced that essence to what he calls the One-Principle®.

A Circle of Warriors
Presenter: Andy Michel
When: Wed. Mar. 8, 7:00-9:00 pm

The Mankind Project is an organization of men working together to improve their lives and help other men. When Romance Isn’t Enough:
Creating Sacred Space
Presenter: Candy Hadsall
When: Wed. Feb. 15, 7:00-9:00 pm
Open to Men and Women

For millennia, some cultures have taught the cultivation of sexual love as an art; as a skillful spiritual practice. In the West, the separation of sexuality from the other aspects of self has resulted in alienation from Spirit, from partners, and from oneself. The sexual revolution brought about more freedom for sexual expression but lost the deeper meaning inherent in authentic sexual connection.

This presentation by Candy Hadsall from Ms. LaVie’s School of Loving Arts will focus on how individuals and couples can open to their divine nature, bring more passion into their relationships, and reconnect with Spirit.

When: Wed. Mar. 22, 7:00-9:00 pm

New Developments in Understanding Relationships
Presenter: Jim Duffy
When: Wed. Feb. 1, 7:00-9:00 pm
Open to Men and Women

There has been a lot of exciting and valuable research published in recent years on the subject of behaviors that help or hinder success in intimate relationships.

From scientific researchers such as John Gorman and Neil Jacobson to psychotic authors such as Bernard Apellbaum and Ellen Wachtel, these recent results are both immensely practical and profoundly fascinating in what they teach us about human nature. Come and hear a summary presentation of some of the recent research and earn more about how you can study in depth the new developments in understanding of intimate human relationships.

Jim Duffy is a writer and freelance researcher in a wide variety of areas of the human studies. He is a humanist, educator and consultant whose popular presentation and many subjects at the Men’s Center have been well received as both interesting and useful as well as often controversial.”

As Volunteer Curator of the Changing Men Collections (CMC), I am familiar with several of those titles and they are archived in the CMC....Much of the CMC is built on donations of materials. As a result of these donations, there are often newsletters received that are duplicates of those we already have. As an example of the duplicates here, there are copies of several issues of Wingspan, which is no longer published. Cry little boy at the end of the movie
As the credits roll and the picture screen becomes dark

The man shell you wear
Cold and rigid

Who would guess you had a heart

People flock to you
Now that you are gone

To reminisce sad trials of lost love
People love a gloomy story
It makes them want to change theirs

"I don’t want to end up like that"
A little boy crying inside the shell of a man
Cold and rigid
