Greetings from the Twin Cities Men’s Center, Uptown area located at 3249 Hennepin Avenue South. We take pride in serving the Twin City area and beyond for 30 years. We currently operate ten different support groups along with the Wednesday Night Presentations, and Anger Management classes. Our groups are very different to accommodate the very diverse issue areas and situations of our attendees, such as sexual orientation, divorce, and many more differences. Last year, in 2005, our visitor count was more than 4000 people!

MISSION STATEMENT: The Mission of the Men’s Center Support Groups is to create a safe place, in times of personal and social challenges, for any men or women to receive and give support to one another and share feelings and experiences to facilitate SELF-ACCEPTANCE and PERSONAL GROWTH.

“When it hurts to look back, and you are too scared to go forward, look beside you and your Men’s Center will be there”

A trained facilitator hosts the Men’s Center support groups. Although each group has a specific focus, all groups are open to general discussions and attended on a drop-in basis. Visitors to our numerous support groups learn to accept themselves for themselves and the people around them. Group members have a chance to become better family members, better partner relationship members, and/or single individuals. Groups deal with self fulfillment, happiness, emotions and feelings. Feelings, at the Men’s Center are regarded as just feelings, and are not judged to be right or wrong. They are simply feelings, which can be expressed within a group setting. The group facilitator will not allow anyone to “come down on you” for expressing your feelings. The group facilitator will then ask you if you would like some feedback on those feelings from the group members, and that is up to you.

All group members are asked at each meeting to keep all information discussed in the group session as confidential and nothing said in group should leave the room. This greatly encourages group members to trust and release additional information that then is extremely helpful to group members in helping each other through a given issue.

Other reasons for attending support groups are brought about by a crisis involving family matters, divorce, partner relationships, and work issues. All can end up with loss of sleep or showing anger. All of the above qualifies you as a good candidate for attending one of the groups, to seek out help and to gain full recovery faster.

Let’s not forget our Wednesday Night Presentations and our Anger Management Classes which have been extremely helpful to many visitors to our Center. The presentations and classes can help with issues that can cause a great amount of negative emotions and stress that can be harmful to our health and also affect our relationships with co-workers and friends. Take the first step and help yourself, then tell others about the Men’s Center, or better yet, hand them a brochure describing the total Men’s Center programs which includes the very impressive Mission Statement.

Outside our groups, we have pride in our resource department. We are very fortunate to have a well-qualified individual holding this position. I found out by going into the center, just for a personal visit to the resource person, that doesn’t work very well, because he is constantly answering telephone calls who need advice or information. As you celebrate Pride at our 30th Anniversary, or may celebrate the Pride Festival, or celebrate pride in your daily life, take pleasure in experiencing those good feelings.

The Twin Cities Men’s Center Group support groups, Anger Management, and Wednesday Night Presentations with 30 years of experience speaks for itself. Would all these benefits come with a monetary cost? Sure! We accept donations from people like you, grants, and contributions from employers who realize the high value of service our organization brings to the Twin Cities area and beyond. Our policy expresses acceptance of everyone, regardless of religious beliefs, race, or sexual orientation or whatever else makes us different from one another. TODAY: Take a Men’s Center brochure and hand it to your employers and your friends. Ask them to call the Men’s Center after reading it, and give their opinion of the brochure.

THIS MEN TALK HAS A COMPLETE DESCRIPTION OF EACH SUPPORT GROUP AND PRESENTATION AND MEETING TAKING PLACE IN JUNE AND JULY 2006.

“There are two primary choices in life:
To accept conditions as they exist,
or accept responsibility for changing them”

— Denis Waitley (Author of The Psychology of Winning)
Greetings from the Board Chair

The one person that you will always be with and must understand is you.

We are complicated beings, and this can be a life long process. Self-awareness is only part of knowing who you are; another pertinent segment is Acceptance.

June is GLBT Pride Month. While the calendar list only 30 days, the Pride is everyday.

Accepting who you are is a core character foundation. That foundation is most grounded when you embrace what an incredible being you are. Others may try to tell you differ. However regardless to the number of persecutions, attacks, and weathered political storms, when you truly know who you are, you stand strong.

For more than forty years, there have been rally cries for that Pride to be shouted from the roof tops. Sometimes it is a grand party, a quiet gathering, confronting prejudicial attitudes or comments, being supported by friends and/or family, or helping those still struggling to create that foundation.

So celebrate with your family, friends, the community, and with the Twin Cities Men’s Center. Celebrate the joy of knowing who you are; accepting it; and embracing the security that no matter how many persecutions, attacks, or hell-bent storms, we are grounded in the pride, knowledge and acceptance of who we are.

It’s not arrogance or boisterous banter. It is a fact. We are here and we belong.

LIVE LONG AND PROSPER,
L. DUDLEY, BOARD CHAIR

The CHI Factorization: A New Technology & How It Can Work for You
Presenter: Tim Monickin
When: June 21, 7:00-9:00 p.m.

Open to Men and Women

Since the 1980s, various groups have been actively researching the operative framework of the collective human intellect (the ‘CHI’) for use in the cybernetic systems. Short of ‘divine intervention,’ the advent of this technology will ostensibly create sentient in the made-man systems of tomorrow. This will result in a veritable “mixed bag.” To what extent the applications will evolve as “Promethean” and “Pandorean,” will be largely up to the public’s awareness and willingness to participate in building intelligent concensus. The “intuitive model,” made available to those interested, can, in the meantime, be internalized and brought into advantage for creative problem solving and finding of common ground in areas otherwise steeped in false dichotomies. This model helps to build reflexive mentalities founded on complementary dialectics, rather than the all-too-prevalent oppositional, simple-minded thinking found nowadays… even in our nation’s capital. The architectures in the public model will be explored, along with suggested readings, websites, blogs, etc. for those wanting to pursue the offerings of the model and related areas of interest.

Nearly 400 people gathered on a beautiful Sunday evening (May 7) to celebrate the accomplishments of the Men's Resource Center for Change and three community leaders working in western Massachusetts: Luis Orlando Isaza, Felice Yeskel, and Raul Matta. The award recipients, whose work on behalf of Latino and gay rights, military courier-recruitment, and raising consciousness about class issues, shared inspiring stories about their lives and work, while a wonderful mix of guests, representing a rich social justice community, took in a gorgeous sunset. At the end of the night, scores of people showed their support for our work by making contributions to the MRC—some of them with monthly or multi-year pledges.

The Men's Resource Center is hosting a day celebrating fathers, father figures and all families on Saturday, June 17th at Groff Park in South Amherst. 20-Something Group Ending

— by John Ruud, Founder, Facilitator

Due to low attendance, I asked the board to discontinue the group. The vote was approved during the April meeting. So for nine and a half years of meeting at the Men’s Center, I would like to thank each and everyone of you who have attended. Thanks especially for your kind words and to the Men’s Center for giving me the opportunity to have a group. Thanks to your strength and problem solving, we have learned to be a rock and not to roll. As I end this group a chapter is closed, but a new one is beginning —stretching out and learning what is on the horizon.

Thanks Again!

The Men’s Center News

The King said, “I am bored!”
So as to keep their heads,
His chief council gathered and invented
A war for his amusement.
The Archbishop approached the throne and
Told the King that there were many serfs
Who were far want and suffering.
The King flattened the jabot of his shirt with his hand
So that he could look down upon the Archbishop
And exclaimed that acts of God and the elements
Should be allowed to diminish their numbers,
And thus, the burden on the Kingdom.
The King sat back in his throne and Twirled a golden chalice encrusted with
Many uncut precious stones. He took a
Large drink of a deep red wine, not knowing
That it was from the last cask in the cellar;
The servants not daring to tell him that
His supply was nearly exhausted.

A messenger arrived and was announced
To the King. There was news of ill being spoken
Of His reign in the countryside.
The King summoned
Many mercenaries to dispose throughout the kingdom
And listen surreptitiously for a source of this maliciousness.

All this while, the jester was busily juggling balls,
He moved back and forth in front of the King
In a futile attempt to entertain him. The King,
Finally taking some notice, asked the jester,

“Of all these great things
That you have witnessed here,
What will story tellers and scribes
say of My divine glory in this reign?”

The Queen who had remained silent for a time
Dethroned and walked briskly into a hall with Many doors, but no egress. She muttered to
Her attendant who was in hasty pursuit,
“We need a new fool.”

Her attendant questioned, “The jester?”

The Queen replied, “No, the one with whom
I share a bed.”

The jester paused, stopped his juggling for a moment,
and said, “None of these things will be remembered
As they do not distinguish you from either your past
Or your future. Instead, it will be known that during this time:

Even though we are but five,
We keep twenty five,
And the best of the best is now
Touching the soul of the worst of the worst,
Who did not know that they had one.”
