How do we heal the sacred wholeness of Male energy in a world of imbalance? A healthier self, organization, or society evolves from healthy connections, attitudes, ideas, and language. The essential role of language in the creation of paradigm and possibility is well understood by those whom would use language to inflame, agitate, divide, manipulate, control and abuse, which is another way of saying propaganda, but not as well grasped by those that seek to heal, recover, and mature. Recovery of language aims toward an effective expression of spirituality, philosophy, reform, novelty, and justice.

Healing the Sacredness of Masculinity begins by confronting the cultural norms that deny, suppress and exile it through faulty and damaging language, disbelief systems, and violent negligence. How does the dysfunction come about? And how do we recover? Note: we have already done the work to debunk the notions of misandry, and accessory language, that insist (1) Male-ness is inherently bad or inferior, a.k.a “toxic”, and (2) society’s failures are caused chiefly by males or by a system of Male dominance, a.k.a. “(Evil) Patriarchy”, and (3) that Males, and Male activity, in order to be good, useful, and true, require the approval and input of Female authority. None of these cultural, academic, psycho-therapeutical, and bio-psycho-social assumptions stand up under adult, intelligent scrutiny, but such refutation is not the main point of this article. Let us rather seek a new course out of the turbid quagmire of negativity directed against the Masculine, first by acknowledging the quaking mire, recognizing what’s off or discordant, then by retuning and returning, by a reacquaintence and re-membering of the positive, timeless, and indissolubility of the Sacred Masculine as a primal force in nature, earth, self, tribe, myth, civilization, creativ-ity and cosmos.

For example, you don’t have to love the sleeping hairy Wild Man buried under the pond or caged in the courtyard of the royal palace/1%, but there he is, magnificently unscathed by the rebuke of surface dwellers, whom are largely too comfortably uncomfortable, too well trained, too busy and solar-conditioned, utterly distracted by hype, bit, and byte, too shorn and shaven, too immersed in digital commodes to notice that he, Wild Man, is a production of the earth, and not of their illusory world of modern citizenry, tidiness, status quo, and Organic self care products from Amazon.

Earth Father, raised on wolf milk on mountain steppes and wild berries ripening beneath the summer moon, deeply rooted and abiding in the depths, consort to the goddess, earthy, hairy clad, adorned with antlers and ancient moss, he is the grandfather to original humans and elder chief to men’s society. He is one of the Patriarchs of Masculine energy yet so far and distant, hardly in charge of anything we might recognize nowadays. His proximity to, and stewardship over, the golden wells in the forest reveals his timely role as priest-king to the goddess, and his vitality, vision, and endurance are testimony to his powerful dedication to life, well-being, and Cosmos. He was paved over long ago by dirt roads and wagon runs in the first agrarian age, and solar men bearing iron wage continuous warfare over his dreaming tomb in the earth for several thousand years. Relatively lately, solar princes and prophets come over those same roads to help guide home their wayward societies, but like the old rusty man in the pond, are quickly apprehended and left somewhere to die in public displays of order and obedience. There’s just no room in the industrial order for the numinous and other-worldly, thrice, (1) the leafy, furry, minerally, starlit old world of the hunt, and (2) the hidden subconscious kingdom of the sea, and (3) even the sky domains of their martial, sunstoked liberators. (The balm for this dis-ease of intolerance to the unusual is to re-father and honour the ancient birthright of Masculinity, which is a connection to the primal forces in self.)

In his place, an insatiable void. A hungry king stifled by over-domestication searches in vain for his lost grace and inward wilderness, and here we all enter the story and share in the grief and confusion of our spiritual orphanage and dissidence, outcasts of our ancestors’ divorce from memory, relevance, and spiritual intimacy with the earth.

What comes next is remembering the importance of initiation to create a healthy Masculinity and the urgent necessity to transform, ritually, the wound received from the world in youth, by rite of passage and mentorship which is also called men’s second birth. This is done by men into the world of men, and is a spiritual counterpart to the menstrual rites governed by women to recognize girls’ induction into the creative process that bears life. What’s not

Letter from the Chair

I have a saying “we have enough in common to start a conversation, and enough differences to talk a life time”. I was once told that I had the heart of a world traveler and I never knew what that meant. I’ve only been out of the country once though on that trip I touched 2 other continents. For me deciding to travel has never been easy. For starters I refuse to kennel my dog and he prefers to stay home. More importantly, I don’t know my traveling style. I don’t know if I travel for adventure, culture, and/or rest and relaxation.

I’ve let the summer slip by and I haven’t touched a foot outside of the Minneapolis/St Paul area. I cringe with embarrassment when I am asked, did you do anything or go anywhere fun this summer? My response is a dry and hard No; I worked!!!!

Recently, a facilitator at TCMC indirectly reminded me of the importance of taking care of oneself. Weather it’s getting away or just simply enjoying and appreciating the simple pleasures life has to offer.

While I still don’t know what “the heart of a world traveler” mean. I am reminded as we come into the seasons changing and the holiday season that it’s important to connect with one ones you love, express appreciation for the people you spend time with, and if you cannot get away at least enjoy the simple pleasures life has to offer. You are important to your environment and your life stories have the power to heal.

to be done if we truly desire to heal our fallen state is to make the unbearable error that pushes men toward neofeminism, as if healthier Masculinity is derived from suppressing and castigating the Male whilst elevating the Female, at his expense. Initiation, time-tested and honed for thousands or even tens of thousands of years, practically is a separation rite away from boyishness, immaturity and dependence on mother. To evolve and mature boyhood is to leave mom, face death, risk dissolution and emerge as a tested Male imbued with Healthy Masculine sacredness that is educated in proper conduction of both Male and Female energies and dynamics, in other words, with the sacred teachings of life. He is reborn into the world of initiated men by men, by spirit, and toward sacred balance. His rebirth, just as the rites of maidenhood, is what healthier peoples accomplish in order to create and honor the Sacred Masculine and Sacred Feminine.

Self-liberating man reclaims self from the ashes of history and trauma, encounters initiation and a rededication to spirit, and therby puts his finger into the wound that rewounds the world unconsciously, and transfigures this into a cup of medicine that heals and renews the world, by gnosis and by syntax, and says, “Let there be light!”

Anger Management
Facilitator: various
When: See calendar for dates
Open to Men Only, Registration Required

Have you been told that your verbal and emotional expression of anger is out of control? Have you lost your job or spouse because you “blew up” one too many times? “I sat up high over third base watching my pitcher get pounded by the New York Yankees a few nights ago, looking out on what used to be the printing and warehouse district of Minneapolis, which is now the condo /espresso /IT district. Where ink-stained gents used to trundle giant rolls of paper into the big presses, now you find highly caffeinated people staring at screens and conceptualizing. I know few people who work with their hands, just their fingers...” Read the full essay at: https://readersupportednews.org/opinion2/277-75/57960-focus-what-you-learn-from-losing-a-ballgame – Garrison Keillor, 2019-08-02

A Top Cause of Death for Young U.S. Men: Police

“The phrase “leading causes of death” might bring to mind cancer, heart disease, suicide and drug overdose. But new research published this month in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences finds that young American men are at a surprisingly high risk of being killed by a police officer.

Among men of all races, ages 25 to 29, police killings are the sixth-leading cause of death, said a study led by Frank Edwards of Rutgers University, with a total annual mortality risk of 1.8 deaths per 100,000 people. Accidental death, which includes automotive accidents and drug overdoses, was the biggest cause at 76.6 deaths per 100,000, and followed by suicide (26.7), other homicides (22.0), heart disease (7.0), and cancer (6.3).

The data do not differentiate between police killings that were later determined to be justified and those that were not. FBI data, which are widely acknowledged to be incomplete, show that 400 to 500 homicides each year are determined to be justified, which is defined as “the killing of a felon by a law enforcement officer in the line of duty.” Those deaths represent about half of the roughly 1,000 annual police killings that independent tallies have found...

I’m looking for men to interview for research on success stories, stories of men who have coped with and overcome adversities. I’m a prof at the U of MN and pay $20 per interview. I do three interviews because I want men to tell me their life stories, and this can take time. The first interview is for men to learn about the research. They will receive $20 for that interview whether or not they choose to be part of the research. I am happy to talk for a few minutes before group and educational settings. Men can text or leave a voice message at 612-237-6126. All are welcome. – Jane Gilgun, Professor, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.

Anger Management Program

Have you been told that your verbal and emotional expression of anger is out of control? Have you lost your job or spouse because you “blew up” one too many times? Have you been hit with a court order to take an Anger Management Class? Learn how to manage your feelings with the Twin Cities Anger Management Program. This is one of the best, and most affordable, programs in the area. It’s ideal for men who desire to significantly improve their relationships at home and at work.

The focus of the twelve week anger management class is both education and support. Through class interaction, experiential exercises, lecture, and homework assignments, men will develop new ways to manage their feelings of anger. Following completion of the class, participants can join an ongoing support group to reinforce their new skills. These ongoing support groups will also be facilitated by the trained volunteer facilitators.

Length of Class: 12 consecutive weeks
Number of Participants: Limited to 12 men per class
Cost: $265 for TCMC Members ($275 for Non-Members)
Starting Dates: Classes are filled on a first come, first served basis. Currently, there are classes on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays.
